BULLETIN VOLUME 2-9

RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 136 pages. Original publisher: St. Paul, MN : U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Forest Service, North Central Research Station, 2004. OCLC Number: (OCoLC)56819177 Subject: Forest surveys -- Data processing -- Handbooks, manuals, etc. Excerpt: . . . Important Points Before covering specific methods and examples of output, there are several important points to remember when using RPA Data Wiz. Many times throughout this application, multiple selections are allowed. Unless noted otherwise, hold SHIFT and click over a range of choices or hold CTRL and click on multiple individual choices. One of these noted exceptions occurs when creating tables and picking grouping variables. Remember that choices in menus or dialogs are only enabled or available when they appear in text that contrasts with the background (e. g. , black text on the gray menu). The abbreviations SW and HW represent softwood and hardwood respectively throughout RPA Data Wiz. AEF occurs in the output tables and represents area (appendices B and C). Make sure your form sizes are maximized to see the graphs well (click on the box in upper right-hand corner of each form to maximize the size). Since the data were acquired from a number of sources using various sampling techniques, there is no easy way to present sampling errors. The number of plots or records associated with a query is the only measure of accuracy provided. Most of the data in the 2002 RPA Assessment do come from the FIA program. A description of the FIA sampling and accuracy standards can be found in The Forest Inventory and Analysis Database: Database Description and Users Manual Version 1. 0 (Miles et al. 2001). Area is the only attribute information that...
