OF THE KINGDOM OF CHRIST AND OF GOD. When all things shall be subdued unto Him, then shall the Son also Himself be subject unto Him that put all things under Him, that God may be all in all. --1 Cor. xv. 28. We spoke last Thursday of the Second Coming of our Lord Jesus Christ as the one hope of the Church's calling. We saw that it was so, because it brought that Presence of the Bridegroom, and that union with Him, for which the Bride longs; and also that completeness of salvation, both in the living and the departed, which belongs to the First Resurrection. And the New Testament Scriptures were cited to exhibit that what ought to be, once was;--that the attitude of the Primitive Church, while abiding in the Apostles doctrine and fellowship, was one of earnest expectation of the Coming of her Lord. It was also attempted to be shown that the holy dying, with which later ages had replaced the ancient hope, was quite inadequate to be its substitute. But nothing was then said by way of accounting for the fact of the replacement. Yet it is a sufficiently remarkable phenomenon. Consider first how Jesus put His return before His Apostles, and how living and burning a hope it appears in their writings. And then contrast its present treatment by the Church. It has lost its place alike in theology and in religion;--in the...
