I, who lately sang Truth, Hope, and Charity, and touchdwith awe The solemn chords, and with a trembling hand, Escapd with pain from that adventrous flight, Now seek repose upon an humbler theme; The theme though humble, yet august and proud Th occasion--for the Fair commands the song. Time was, when clothing sumptuous or for use, Save their own painted fluns, our sires had none. As yet black breeches were not; satin smooth, Or velvet soft, or plush with shaggy pile: The hardy chief upon the rugged rock Washd by the sea, or on the gravly bank Thrown up by wintry torrents roaring loud, Fearless of wrong, reposd his weary strength. Those barbrous ages past, succeeded next The birth-day of invention; weak at sirst, Dull in design, and clumsy to perform. Joint-stools were then created; on three legs Upborn they stood. Three legs upholding sirm A massy flab, in fashion square or round. On such a stool immortal Alfred sat, And swayd the sceptre of his infant realms: And such in ancient halls and mansions drear May still be seen; but perforated sore, And drilld in holes, the solid oak is found, By worms voracious eating through and through. At length a generation more resind Improvd the simple plan; made three legs four, Gave them a twisted form vermicular, And oer the feat, with plenteous wadding stuffd, Inducd a splendid cover, green and blue,...
